Fire In Uranium Mine

2,000 FATALITIES REPORTED

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Fatalities in a German East zone uranium mine fire have reached 2,000, the British licensed Telegraf said today.

In an earlier edition today the Telegraf said that 100 German miners had died in a fire which occurred last Thursday in an Erz Mountain uranium mine known as the Johannes (Georgstadt).

The Telegraf said that the fire had spread from mine "No. 35" to two nearby workings and that an explosives dump had detonated, wrecking a mine hoisting tower.

The Telegraf said that the fire began when work insulation on mine electric cables caused a short circuit.

Deaths were caused by fire, smoke and poisonous gases, the newspaper said.

Rescue workers found work extremely difficult and mine and factory fire brigades from all nearby cities and towns in Western Saxony were pressed into action, the Telegraf continued.

BODIES RECOVERED

The newspaper said that rescue teams were still at the scene on Friday night and that 988 bodies had then been recovered.

The Telegraf claimed that special German rescue teams did not arrive at the fire until 12 hours after it began.

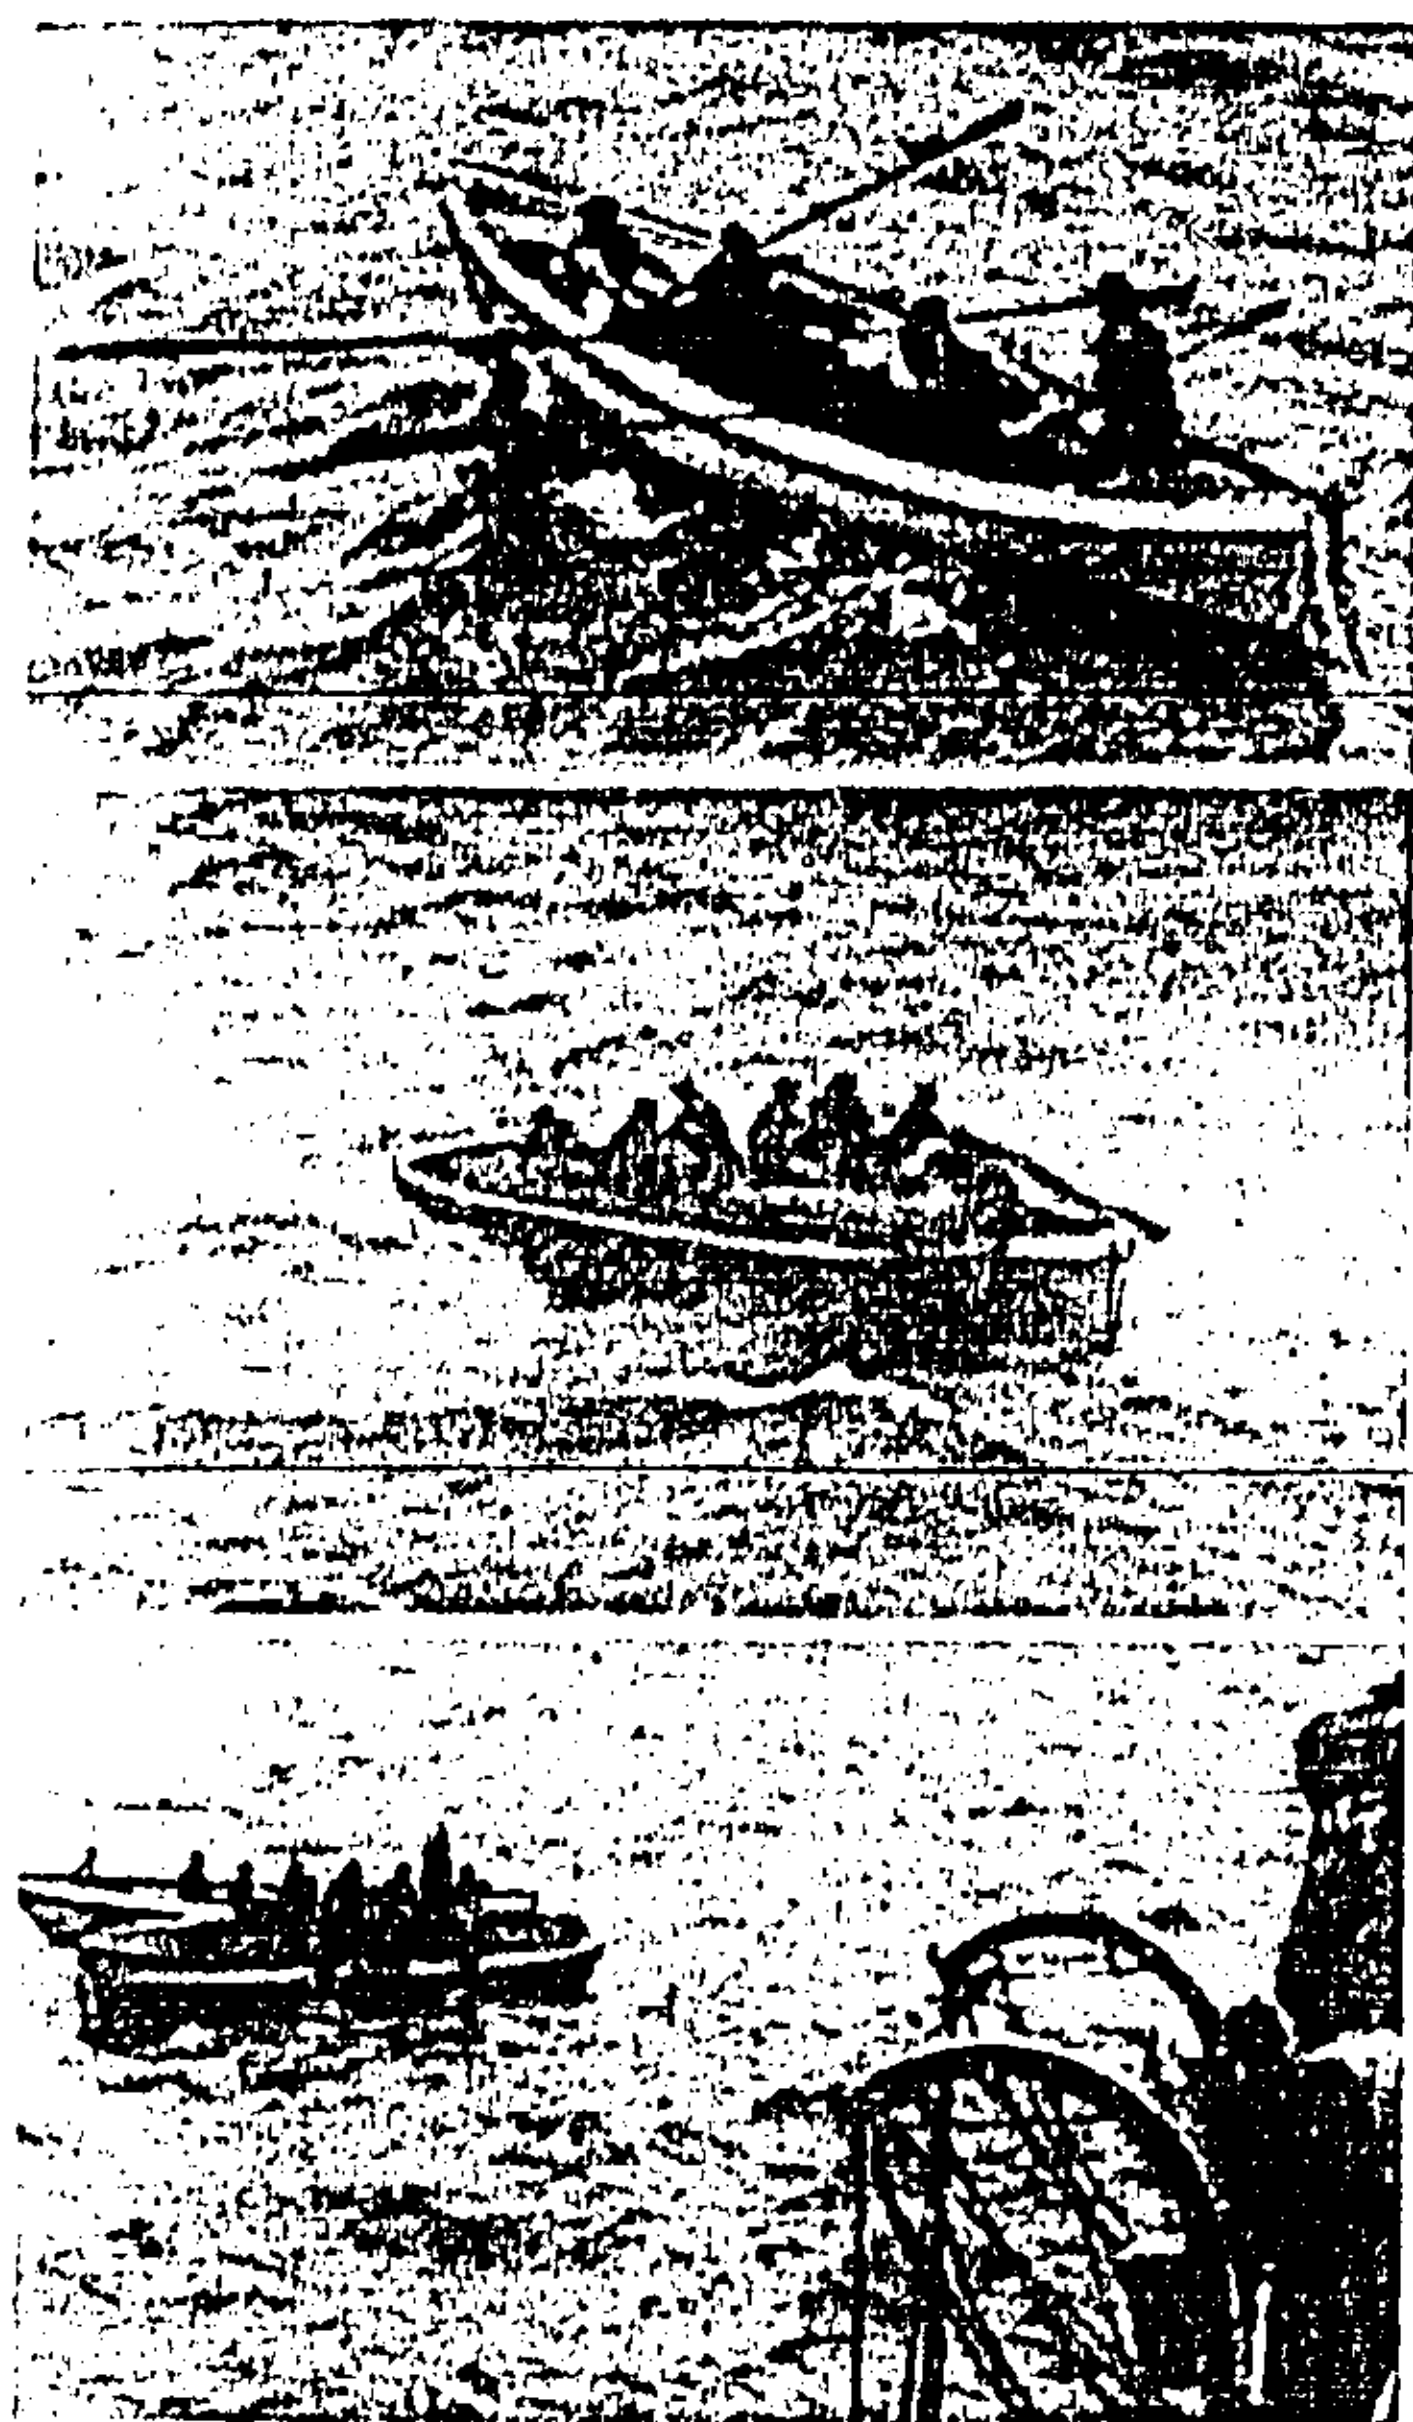

The Telegraf said that only 200 miners had been rescued and that the workings employed more than 5,000. It estimated that about half of these were on the job when the fire began.

The newspaper said that the Wismuth A. G. the Russian controlled company which operates these uranium mines, has evacuated its German administrative offices from the district and barred the entire area to all but rescue workers and officials.

Russ, the American sponsored radio in Berlin, said it had received a report from "a reliable source" that "hundreds" of miners had burned or suffocated in Johannes (Georgstadt) uranium mine fire.

American intelligence officers said that they had not so far heard any report of the disaster.

Nationalists Shell U.S. Ship For An Hour Off Shanghai

Washington, Nov. 28.—The State Department today announced that it would protest "energetically" to the Chinese Nationalist government against the shelling of the American steamship, Sir John Franklin, off Shanghai.

The Department moved into the picture after the owners of the vessel, Isbrandtsen Company of New York, demanded that the United States government act to curb the "trigger

POWERFUL CHUNGKING CHECKED

Temporary Relief For City

NATIONALISTS MAKE APPEAL TO BRITAIN

Chungking, Nov. 28.—Desperate Chinese Nationalist defenders today checked the Red rush on this chaotic capital less than 20 miles from Chungking's gates, the government asserted. The reprieve will give the few top officials still in Chungking time to fly on Tuesday to Chengtu—the government's next stopping place.

As far as is known, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek still is here directing the city's defences. Planes wait at the airport to take him and other leaders away.

High quarters predicted Gen. Chiang would resume the Presidency in Nationalist China's bleak hour if Acting President Li Tsung-jen refuses to return. Mr. Li, who has split with Gen. Chiang, is in Hongkong. Generalissimo Chiang sent two emissaries to Hongkong to talk with Mr. Li.

Before the government reportedly checked the Communists, reports reaching here said the Nationalist defences had been smashed.

(An Associated Press despatch from Formosa said in this connection that the Communists fought into the suburb of South Springs, 12 miles from the city proper, but were driven out.)

(The despatch quoted high sources who were in touch by telephone with Chungking. This despatch apparently referred to events before the situation was stabilized.)

(The despatch from the Formosa island fortress also said the government had moved to Chengtu. This seemed premature. It may have referred to numerous ministry officials who are believed to be already in Chengtu.)

Agency broadcast from Formosa said some Ministry of National Defence officials had arrived there by plane from Chungking. The broadcast was heard by the Associated Press at San Francisco. — Associated Press.

YUAN'S APPEAL

London, Nov. 28.—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese regime, reeling from the crushing Communist blows, today appealed to the British "Mother of Parliaments" that the British government refuse to make terms with the Communists in Peking.

The appeal came after informed sources had said that Britain had already decided on de jure recognition of the Communist government.

'Road Closed For Repairs'

Reason For Present Activity

When workmen begin repairing Caine Road near Old Bailey Street this morning yet another area will unavoidably become clogged with slow moving traffic.

Although the number of roads under repair at the present time seems abnormally high, this is not so. If the Public Works Department had more funds available it would undertake the repair of even more roads for the longer a road is left the greater the final cost in repairing it.

The actual repair work is concentrated in the months between now and May because it is not possible to carry out extensive repairs during the wet season.

The public has merely had its attention focused on road repairs by the fact that those being repaired at the present time are most extensively used by motorists and pedestrians. The resulting traffic congestion is emphasised by the great influx of cars into Hongkong.

American Gallup Poll Disfavours Recognition

New York, Nov. 28.—A Gallup poll on whether the United States should recognise the Chinese Communist government showed today that the majority of the Americans oppose such a step. The figures showed: in favour of recognition, 20 percent; opposed 42 percent; no opinion 14 percent; not familiar with China events, 24 percent.

The second question—"If China is taken over completely by the Communists, do you think the United States should continue to carry on trade with China?"—was answered thus: continued trade, 29 percent; no continued trade, 33 percent; and no opinion 14 percent.

On the first question, Gallup pointed out that there was about 2-1 opposition to recognition among those familiar with events in China and an even higher percentage among the better educated group.

RUSSIA TRYING TO DISMEMBER CHINA

U.S. Resolution Calls For "Hands Off" Action

Lake Success, Nov. 28. — U.S. Ambassador Philip C. Jessup said today there is evidence of another Russian attempt to dismember China.

He called on the Soviet Union and all countries everywhere to keep hands off China and let the Chinese settle their own future. Mr. Jessup, who will make a personal inspection of the turbulent Far East after the UN Assembly adjourns, put before the Assembly's Political Committee a "hands off China" resolution sponsored by the United States, the Philippines, Australia, Mexico and Pakistan.

There is a serious question, Mr. Jessup said, whether the Russians had acted in good faith with the Chinese since the second world war ended and the Moscow leaders signed a treaty of friendship with the Nationalist government in 1945.

"Some of the evidence and of the reports (coming to the State Department) create grave cause for concern that as in fact Russia is again being laid for a further Russian attempt to dismember China," Mr. Jessup said.

Russia has been accused of making a puppet state of Outer Mongolia and of taking over large parts of Manchuria. Mr. Jessup noted that Nationalist China accused the Russians of establishing special regimes under Soviet control on the Manchurian, Inner Mongolian and Northwestern provinces of China.

4-POINT RESOLUTION

Mr. Jessup tossed before the Committee the resolution calling on all countries:

"1. To respect the political independence of China and to be guided by the principles of the UN Charter in their relations with China.

"2. To respect the right of the people of China now and in the future to choose freely their political institutions and to maintain a government independent of foreign control.

"3. To respect existing treaties relating to China.

"4. To refrain from (a) seeking to acquire spheres of influence or to create foreign controlled regimes within the territory of China, (b) seeking to obtain special rights or privileges within the territory of China."

The Nationalist Chinese delegate, Mr. T. F. Tsiang, promptly showed his disappointment, saying the five country resolution did not go far enough.

The Soviet bloc showed no interest, maintaining its boycott of the discussion. A lone adviser, Mr. B. F. Podlaschok, sat in the Russian section.

Foreign Minister Andrei Vyshinsky has said Russia will not recognize any decision the Assembly makes in this case.

DEBATE ADJOURNED

The Committee adjourned debate on the Chinese question until after the Assembly acts on a Western statement of 12 countries of peace. Most of the Committee members must attend the Assembly sessions on that project, beginning on Tuesday, and most of them do not

UN To Take Over Southwest Africa

Lake Success, Nov. 28.—Climaxing a dramatic session highlighted by the walkout of the South African delegation, the General Assembly's Trusteeship Committee today decided by 81 votes to 11 with four abstentions to recommend that the South African government submit the territory of Southwest Africa to United Nations trusteeship.

The resolution, which was submitted by India and amended by Guatemala, also expresses regret that South Africa failed to comply with three successive recommendations of the General Assembly to place the former German colony under international trusteeship.

The resolution also expresses regret that South Africa ceased submitting reports on administration of the territory to the United Nations and invites the Pretoria government to resume the submission of such reports.

OPPOSITION VOTE

The United States, United Kingdom, France, Australia, Belgium, Canada, Greece, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden and Turkey—11 of whom voted against the Guatemalan amendment asking South Africa to comply with the Assembly's previous recommendations. It is UN trusteeship—opposed the resolution.

Denmark, New Zealand, Peru and Thailand abstained.

The original Indian draft resolution merely censures the South African government for repudiating assurances on the submission of reports to the United Nations and invited it to resume the submission of reports. South Africa ceased submitting reports last July on the grounds that the information was used by various delegations to criticise its policies.—United Press.

Airways Sale In Line With Policy

London, Nov. 28.—A BOAC official told me today that the sale of Hongkong Airways, Ltd. to Jardine, Matheson was in line with BOAC policy of organising "feeder" services and selling them to a local enterprise when they are operationally and commercially efficient.

Hongkong Airways have temporarily suspended services because of the Chinese situation, but they are expected to resume frequent services to Canton, Shanghai and the Philippines as soon as possible.

It is expected the present BOAC air crew will be seconded to Hongkong Airways.—Our Own Correspondent.

Nationalised Transport Loses £20,000,000

London, Nov. 28.—The government announced today that its nationalised transport system lost £20 million last year and the outlook for 1950 was even darker.

The Transport Minister, Mr. Alfred Barnes, told the House of Commons that losses were more than four times as great as those of 1948, when the system showed a deficit of £4,750,000. He said the situation had become so serious, the Transport Commission had asked him to authorise a freight rate increase of 10 percent. There will be no increase in passenger fares.

The system includes railways, station hotels and coastal shipping.

Conservative critics charged immediately outside the House that this increase would be a huge blow to Britain's "export or die" programme.

"The increase will hit manufacturers of heavy exports hoping to take advantage of the 33 percent devaluation of the pound sterling to sell in hard currency markets, and saddle them with an impossibly heavy production price increase at home," they said.

Mr. Barnes told the Commons: "At present it appears likely the net revenue deficiency for the current year will exceed £2,000,000 and it will be greater in 1950 on the basis of existing charges."—United Press.

Loyalty To Hongkong

LOYALTY to the Hongkong Government in a time of emergency is a predominant necessity, for, if it is lacking, the proper measures which the Authorities have taken to safeguard the Colony fall into the same category as the "Best laid schemes of mice and men." But if loyalty can be depended upon; if Government can feel assured that the vast majority of its citizens will remain faithful to which it, as well as they, have served, then any emergency, any crisis, can be dealt with adequately. That there should be any doubts about the loyalty of the Colony in a time of stress and travail is a matter for regret; yet honesty compels the doubt. There is a variety of contributing factors, the principal of which are easily enumerated: Ninety-nine percent of the population is Chinese, who whether they be Hongkong residents through birth, Hongkong residents through extraneous circumstances, or merely "visitors," or transients, will always owe first allegiance to China. In part, this is understandable, for geographically, as it has so often been emphasised, Hongkong is part of China; and also historically, though not to the same degree. Socially there are powerful ties which become even more integrated through political ideology: added together this amounts to "Once a Chinese, first and always a Chinese." Loyalty, it has been affirmed, is devoted allegiance to a government or a chief: in Hongkong there is only one doubt about final loyalty, and that is, to which government? It has been argued that loyalty on the part of the local population to the British Government is a problem which the British themselves posed in consequence of coming here. It possesses an element of truth, but ignores one aspect: the relative prosperity and economic stability of the Colony, applicable to all walks of life, makes Hongkong a reasonable investment for anybody. Law, order, justice and a comparative living standard bear witness to an administrative system, touched with benevolence, which earns for it respect. If Hongkong is not as democratic as we would like, it is still far more democratic than its nearest neighbour, and is always likely to be so. It has long been a haven, perhaps too easily so, for this has cultivated the idea that one could always come to Hongkong if in trouble and then abandon it, or even betray it, if suited by the purpose. Hongkong needs the loyalty of its citizens, just as does any other part of the world—and loyalty, not of a handful, but of the great majority. It may be necessary to stimulate this, for ours is a heterogeneous population with many roots elsewhere. If this has to be done, surely the best method is to provide an economic standard of life and an equal opportunity that will convince, particularly the local born and the Chinese immigrants, of the overwhelming advantage of being a part of a Commonwealth system which believes in, and operates a system on the best principles of Democracy. There are signs that this is being put more and more into practice in Hongkong, and from it the "Hongkong Boy" about whom so much has been spoken and written during recent years can take encouragement. It is a system that can be extended even still further to embrace immigrants, and if the reward to the Colony is loyalty at all times, as well as good and faithful service, it will well satisfy.

ROSALIND TALKS ABOUT HER HATS

By Vivien Batchelor

WITH three hats on her head and another nine in her arms, Miss Rosalind Russell stepped into the sitting-room of her suite at the Savoy. "I love hats," she said. "I couldn't carry them all but I want you to see them."

She has brought more than 12 hats with her on her short visit for the Royal Film Show. "I design nearly all my own and I get many of my ideas from the typical national head-gear of whatever country I am lucky enough to visit," she told me.

How It Began

"I started my craze for hats when I got married early in the war in a Danish village in California called Solvang."

Her husband is Frederick Brissom, son of Danish star Carl Brissom.

She has brought six hats from a Danish peasant cap covered with beads and embroidery, which her husband bought her as a present the last time he was home.

This hat is bonnet-shaped, made in three pieces and folding flat. Waving it gleefully in the air as she whirled off the brown gloves, she said she was wearing to match her pin-striped tailor-made suit, she put it on her dark hair to show the effect.

New Colour

Then came a copy of the hat in taupe satin.

"Taupe is a colour I have not seen in London. I love it," she said. (The colour is a smoky violet with a touch of beige.)

Then there were other copies of the hat in white satin embroidered with gold and in navy blue.

"But I like big brims as well," she said, and flourished a dramatic black creation with a thin brim covered in black veiling tied with a huge bow.

From The Tower

"Do you like this one?" she asked, as she put on a replica of a Defeatist's hat in navy blue, with a small eye veil.

Diving down into the tissue paper and hats on the settee, she produced a round grey felt, with a small feather on one side. This was "very ordinary—just to wear with a tailor-made suit."

It looked far from ordinary when she had put it on.

Next came a black small-brimmed hat with veiling and

Peasant cap followed peasant cap on Rosalind's head as she staged her 12-hat parade.

"I love them—they're all my work"

When Miss Russell finds a hat she likes she has it copied in as many colours as she is likely to wear.

During the hat parade she refreshed herself with a glass of water while husband Frederick, standing discreetly aside as his wife's hat parade was the topic, had a whisky and soda to fortify himself.

One of her favourites is a furry beaver, shaped rather like a pith helmet, also in taupe—"so light I hardly know I am wearing it."

Psychological Treatment Of Thumb-sucker

By G. C. MYERS, Ph.D.

MOST babies and young children suck their thumbs or fingers some. While the practice disappears very early in the average child, it persists even after entering school with an occasional child. When it continues beyond the second or third year it is likely to become a personality problem, as it is sure to suggest to other children and adults a lag in growing up and to invite nagging by the parents and other relatives.

How much harm thumb-sucking can do to the child's teeth and mouth is a disputed matter. Some published studies of a few young children over rather limited periods, by dental experts conclude that there can be very little or no physical harm. Yet many hundreds of children with malformed teeth and jaws have these irregularities traced by the dental specialist (orthodontist) by means of slow gradual mechanical pressure. It is difficult to understand why the slow pressure of a thumb, when it is so constant as with some youngsters, could not also provide enough pressure to malform the teeth, jaw and roof of the mouth.

Less Anxious

However, for most mothers to believe thumb-sucking can do no harm to any portion of the mouth is wholesome, no doubt, as this belief renders mothers less anxious about the matter and therefore less prone to provoke the habit with emotional-laden treatment of the thumb-sucking youngster.

One fact is pretty apparent to any careful observer: that the more the parents are wrought up over thumb-sucking the more sure they are to cause the child to increase the practice, the more ready these parents are to jerk the thumb from the youngster's mouth, to shame, scold or even slap him for having the thumb of fingers in his mouth.

As I have often said in this column, punishment of any sort, of the young child, hardly can be effective unless it is immediate and without exception. As you can see, such a rule is impossible to follow with thumb-sucking. Besides, as thumb-sucking is nearly always a soothing activity, most frequent when the child is weary, hungry or out of sorts, any kind of chastisement merely tends to make the child more ready to turn to the usual comfort of sucking his thumb.

Vague Feeling

In the young infant thumb-sucking may begin because of hunger or discomfort after taking food, or from a vague feeling of tenseness and insecurity. Guidance by the physician may solve the problem, but more often the mother and more tenderness and normal show of affection by her to the youngster should be good. The older child the more powerful these psychological factors are.

In some few instances thumb-sucking disappears after instructions in the nasal passages have been removed. Simple devices, like a sheath made of rough cloth fastened around the offending thumb, sometimes work in case the child cooperates. But any device which stir up resistance in the child do more harm than good.

Then, too, they never know when their big chance will come. They never know when some producer, sitting in a darkened projection room looking at the day's scenes, will lean over and say to the Director, "Who is that woman? I think we could use her in a bigger part."—Associated Press.

Film Extras Demand Just As Much Attention As The Stars

HOLLYWOOD's stars aren't the only players who can be temperamental. Extras—the performers who play minor non-speaking roles—can be difficult too.

So says Ruth Collins of the Columbia Studios' wardrobe department. It is her job to supply the costumes that "extras" wear.

Women "extras" want bright colours and striking costumes that will attract attention, says Miss Collins, and competition for the best garments is keen.

When the girls feel that their costumes don't flatter them, they are even quicker to complain than the stars.

Most "extras" are just as careful of their appearance as well known stars. They apply their own makeup and dress their own hair for the cameras. Sometimes, in fact, they do too good a job and outshine the stars. When they are told in these times to make themselves a little less obvious, they are apt to make a real fuss, beyond the range of the director's hearing, of course.

Usually one side of an actor's face photographs better than the other. They are careful always to present the best side to the camera. "Extras" do the same. They try to put themselves in the most becoming positions.

Even when women "extras" have to wear dowdy clothes, says Miss Collins, they seek to have them fitted to the contours of their bodies just as the stars do.

Tight-fitting, Popular. Such tight-fitting dresses are popular—except on cold mornings. When the temperature

The "Boy" Look. Paris talk about the neat starched collar, and the "little boy look" inspires a wool jersey dress. Made with a new longer waistline (the normal waistline still defined by a soft cording belt), the dress features crisply starched cuffs and collars of plique—the collar complete with tiny gold collar button. It's smart in gray, green, cocoa, beige and deep brown worsted wool jersey.

In fashions generally, skirts are going up and waistlines give a hint of coming down. A favourite in young fashions of several decades past, the long torso especially has always been liked by teens as well as younger girls. In some of the holiday lines, the hint of longer waistlines is definitely marked, especially in new short evening dresses.

Nylon Anklets That Glow. Teen gleam magic-glow socks of fine combed cotton with nylon cuffs of fluorescent yarn are featured.

The vivid colours in the cuffs are chemically treated so they have a glowing effect on the foot. Bright cherry, lime, blue, orange are the cuff colours which are used in geometric patterns.

Novelty heels appear to be gaining popularity, according to the fashion reports in fashionable areas in and around Los Angeles. These black frame heels are typical. In this instance they are a nice complement to the black velvet pumps.

A Beauty Routine for Hair

Keep your hair clean and shining if you want it to look its best. If it tends to be oily, a weekly washing with a good cream shampoo is especially recommended.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE is hardly anything that adds more to personal attractiveness than an abundance of beautiful hair, skillfully and becomingly arranged. The woman who is so blessed should make every effort to maintain them in a healthy condition because, like any part of the body, the glorious halo is subject to depression and ill health.

Cleanliness, of course, is the first requirement. When the hair is excessively oily, the periods between shampoos should not exceed ten days; a weekly dousing is even better. Chemists are offering special shampoos for dry and oily hair so, when making a purchase, be sure to get the one best suited to your needs.

Scalp massage is an influence for good. Every silky shaft gets its food and drink from the blood streams. The friction necessary to move the scalp about, to lift it, starts circulation on the go, and that is all for the good.

Specialists say that the health of the hair and scalp depends in a large measure upon the health of the body. They do not assume that taking hair back to other significance than that of the scalp is present. So obey the rules of hygienic living. Get plenty of nourishing food. Outdoor exercise, restful sleep. And peace of mind—if that is possible these days.

Age has an effect upon the hair. During the teen period the trouble is excessive oil as the sebaceous glands are particularly active. Later, a lack of oil will cause the shafts to be brittle. Some drugs and medicines have an effect upon the human tangle. It is said that bromides will cause tresses to lose lustre.

A well known specialist says that dental decay may cause the hair to fall. Reasonable enough. Poor teeth cause impaired processes; the nourishment supplied by the blood streams to the scalp is lessened. With good shampoos, scalp friction and brushing, normal hair should survive and flourish.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

Serve Simple, Nutritious Food

In the test-kitchen we plan our dinner menus from the standpoint of appetite, appeal, nutritive value, and cost. We made, substitute 1 qt. of which 3 bouillon cubes or 3 tsp. broth powder have been dissolved. It won't be eaten. Result—no nutrition and money wasted. On the other hand, a meal can be delicious, because it contains rich sauces, heavy cream, and too many sweets; but unless it is nutritionally balanced, the main purpose of eating is defeated. The third factor, that of cost, is equally important, for the simple reason: incomes are spent for food. Naturally, the most expensive item in a dinner is the main dish or entree.

"Madame, I would like to clear up a misconception about the word entree," said the Chef. "In cookery the entree is a light dish that is served before the roast, which is really the main dish. For example, a real entree could be fillet of fish, saute, baked stuff of small fish, timbale of meat or fish, or stuffed tomatoes, or escalloped oysters, or a casserole of any kind, or what you call in America, a savoury made dish. The main dish would be a roast, such as a leg of lamb, or leg of veal, or a mutton, poultry or game."

"Well Chef, we don't have either the service or money to allow such costly main dishes very often, so we frequently use entree as the principal food of the main course."

Croquettes are really only chopped or hashed meat or fish, Chef, put together with a sauce, and dipped in eggs and crumbs and fried in deep fat."

"Oul, Madame; but they present a most distinguished appearance. And they are very much inside the budget. And what a grand choice a homemaker has. The chicken and rice croquette, vegetable, fish, lamb, sweetbread, ham, tongue or veal croquettes. Served piping-hot with a sauced vegetable, they make a fine entree for any dinner."

"And Chef, I think your French casseroles are wonderful. Let's plan one for the main dish of our dinner menu."

HAPPY BRIDE — Greeting the crowd outside the Church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills, California, after their wedding are film actress Jane Powell, 20, and Geary Stephen, 26. They met when he taught her how to ice-skate for a film.

HE CAN HAVE UNION CARD—Bishop Michael J. Ready, of Columbus, Ohio, did such a good job of laying the cornerstone for three new buildings that the masons' union gave him a union card. The buildings were a rectory, a chancery, and a home for the bishop.

WELL BALANCED — Starlet Betty Underwood, in Hollywood, has been chosen by the American Institute of Accountants as the actress with the "best balanced figure."

HE HAS THE GREEN THUMB—He's almost 100, but Dave Bringle still works in the garden in Oswego, Kansas, from which a granddaughter canned 100 quarts of vegetables last summer. Bringle will soon attend his son's golden wedding.

LEFT OUTSIDE—Andrew's kiss is a little wet and tickling on two-year-old Faith Hart, but it was somewhat consoling. Both were waiting outside the church in London, England, where the French poodle's mistress was being married. Andrew was "best dog" at the show and the little girl was just an onlooker.

BOBBY-SOXERS' IDOL — When actor John Derek attended the opening of his new film in New York, he was mobbed by admiring bobby-soxers. Derek has won a magazine poll as the year's most popular newcomer.

HE'S NOT ON CIVIL SERVICE—Fusk, a dog of various ancestry, accompanies postman Joseph Kruczek on his daily delivery route in Chicago, Illinois. Each morning Fusk leaves his own home and waits at the pick-up box for the postman, and he stays on the job all day.

Atlantic Pact Defence Talks Begin Today

"EXTREMELY IMPORTANT"

DECISIONS EXPECTED

Paris, Nov. 28.—The Chiefs of Staff of the 12 Atlantic Pact nations, meeting here tomorrow, will open the biggest military planning conference in Continental Europe since the war.

Mr. Aneurin Bevan, Britain's Minister of Health, yesterday for his 52nd birthday, addressed Indian students at London University. Mr. Bevan, defending Britain's free National Health scheme, said that it was not such a burden on the national economy as its critics had tried to make out.—London Express Service.

America's Role In Greece

Truman On Value Of Arms Aid

Washington, Nov. 28.—President Truman reported to Congress today that United States military aid, together with the courage and determination of the Greek people, had substantially eliminated the Communist guerrilla threat to Greece.

In his eighth report on the Military Assistance Program to Greece and Turkey, Mr. Truman added, however: "Neither the American nor the Greek people should be lulled into complacency by the marked improvement in the Greek military situation."

"Communist expansion is a stubborn force whose persistent resourcefulness can only be countered by equally persistent vigilance and patience."

The report covered the period from April 1 to June 30 this year, before the Greek guerrillas announced their cease-fire in October.

"Without the Greek will to resist, it is unlikely that foreign aid, or international diplomacy, or fortuitous developments could have halted the drive of Communism toward the Mediterranean," the President said.

Mr. Truman said that the United States would play an important role in the efforts of the United Nations to settle differences between Greece and her northern neighbours and to put an end to foreign aid to Greek rebels.

He referred particularly to assistance given by Albania, which, he said, had been found by the United Nations to be primarily responsible for the threat to peace in the Balkans.—Reuter.

The conference will culminate on Thursday with a meeting of the Defence Ministers of the 12 nations.

Conference sources said tonight that the meetings would aim at the setting up of "an overall defence plan" for the 12 Western powers.

This afternoon the British, American and French Chiefs of Staff met with elaborate security precautions here in advance of the four days of defence talks.

Admiral of the Fleet Lord Fraser, Britain's First Sea Lord and Chief of Naval Staff, General Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff, and General Charles LeMay, the French Chief of Air Staff, held a two-and-a-half-hour discussion in the French Ministry of Marine.

Reporters and photographers were not allowed even to enter the Ministry courtyard.

DEFENCE ZONES

Well-informed quarters believe that the Chiefs of Staff studied the following three main points of North Atlantic defence.

1. A definition of the defence zones with a general defence line along the Rhine or the Elbe.

2. The mode of strategic intervention, based probably on General Bradley's five points for North Atlantic defence given to Congress last July at the time of the Atlantic Military Pact credit vote.

3. The consequences of decisions on the above strength of divisions, co-operation among the 12 nations of the land, sea and air forces, division of military assistance and equipment.

$1,000m. AVAILABLE

These preparations for an integrated defence of the area will be carried forward at the meetings this week.

The 12 nations meeting tomorrow are: Britain, Canada, the United States, France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Denmark, Norway, Italy, Portugal and Iceland.

General Bradley's five points included: That the United States would be charged with strategic bombing, that American and Western Union naval powers would conduct the other nations concerned would maintain their own harbour and coastal defences, that the hard core of the ground power would come from Europe, aided by other nations as they were able to mobilise.

Under the United States Mutual Defence Assistance Act, $1,000,000,000 was made available for immediate expenditure along with quantities of stockpiled equipment and supplies deemed surplus to American needs.—Reuter.

JOHNSON IN LONDON

London, Nov. 28.—The United States Secretary of Defence, Mr. Louis Johnson, on the first round of important military conferences today described Berlin, which is east of the Elbe River, as an integral part of the defence of Western Europe.

After a weekend in Germany, Mr. Johnson arrived in London.

tonight for conferences tomorrow with the Prime Minister, Mr. Clement Attlee, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps and the Defence Minister, Mr. A. V. Alexander, and an address at a secret session of the British defence college.

He will fly to Paris tomorrow night to participate in a meeting of the 12 Defence Ministers of the Atlantic Pact—a meeting which is expected to determine the defence strategy of Western Europe.

At a Press conference in Berlin earlier today and to reporters at the airport, Mr. Johnson sketched lightly over the most controversial military problems of the day, but made it plain that extremely important decisions for Europe were in the making.—United Press.

U.S. EXPERTS

Copenhagen, Nov. 28.—An eight-man American team of military experts, led by Mr. Gray Bream, chief of the Northern European Division of the State Department, has completed its negotiations with Atlantic Pact countries and is expected to leave Copenhagen tomorrow.

The team is expected to spend a few days in London before returning to the United States.

N. details of the negotiation have been released.—Reuter.

Juryman Fails To Appear

Awa Wong of the Eastland Co., Ltd., Taining Building was fined $50 this morning by Mr. Justice Gould for failing to appear for jury service.

Wong, when brought before the court, pleaded that owing to his health he was unable to serve on a jury, and also that his work prevented him from attending.

Mr. Gould said that if his health was such that he was unable to appear he should have presented a medical certificate to that effect, and also he should have applied for exemption from service.

Afghanistan Joins FAO

Washington, Nov. 28.—Afghanistan was admitted as a member of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organisation today when the plenary session of the annual conference suspended its rules requiring 30 days' notice.

This brought FAO membership to 62 nations. Fifty-three members voted in favour of Afghanistan's admission. Two voted against, one abstained and five did not vote.—Reuter.

Maoris Go To The Polls Today

Wellington, Nov. 28.—Maoris, who always vote the day before the European elections, will tomorrow elect their four members to the House of Representatives, in the New Zealand general election.

Since 1943 Labour has held all four Maori seats.—Reuter.

Johnson in London

Goodwill Gesture To U.S. Army

Sterilisation Of The Unfit May Become Essential

—Bishop Barnes

Birmingham, Nov. 28.—The Right Rev. Ernest William Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, who is well known for his outspoken statements on controversial questions, declared today that the time was fast coming when sterilisation of the unfit in Britain would be essential.

Speaking at a luncheon here, he said that at least 90 per cent of feeble-mindedness was inherited, adding: "A time is quickly coming when sterilisation of the unfit will have to be essential in our social organisation."

"Sterilisation may well be, in fact, the complement of the welfare state."

The creation of the welfare state was a great achievement and would doubtless be followed elsewhere, he said, but social reforms created new situations in which new and sometimes troublesome problems arose.

"We must educate our citizens to have smaller families."

We must have medically controlled sterilisation of the grosser forms of unfitness."

Many were beginning to think that medically controlled sterilisation for defective infants should be an element of Britain's social policy.

Replying to a questioner, who referred to the dangerous nature of the operation by which women were sterilised, Dr. Barnes said: "Sterilisation for a man is quite easy and there is no danger in it. The medical authorities seem to believe that sterilisation for a woman, with the present extraordinary rapid advances of medical and surgical skill, will not ultimately be dangerous."

"We have to look at the facts. This system was conceived by the British Committee, which reported in favour of medically controlled sterilisation—not as a punishment, but as a means of promoting the social health of the community."

"The idea is new; it is contrary to our traditions. It seems to be an offence against human instincts, but what alternative is there? The need is there confronting us."

"If you doubt it, take in opportunity of getting knowledge such as you can get in this city quite easily by consulting the health authorities."—Reuter.

Meanwhile, in New Delhi, the Indian Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, said he hoped for an early announcement on the recognition of the Chinese Communists.

The Nationalist telegram appealed to all anti-Communist "democratic and peace-loving peoples" not to let Communism be won by word or deed. It said, "Should the Chinese Communists, with your financial and material help, succeed in overrunning South China and should International Communism succeed in utilising the industrial resources of the Northwest provinces and North China, and in harnessing the manpower of hundreds of millions of Chinese people, we shudder at the thought of what lies in store for Hongkong and Malaya as well as Burma, Ceylon, India, and in which you are bound by Commonwealth ties."

SAME TECHNIQUE

To concede to the demand of a few for the establishment of commercial relations with the Chinese Communists was contrary to the traditional concept of justice and fair play of the British people, it continued.

"The Chinese Communists are following in letter and spirit the technique of their Russian masters in an attempt to oust all vestiges of what they choose to call Western imperialism from Chinese soil."

The Nationalist telegram said the proposed formation of a coalition government "allegedly representative of some 20 political parties" was a "puppet show."

It said, "It consists of persons now prisoners of the hands of the Chinese Communists. From your rich experience in dealing with the Communists you must have come to know that in the Communist dictionary coalition government is but a synonym for Communist dictatorship."—United Press.

modation for ten to 12 passengers. It was not known how many passengers were aboard.

The captain also radioed: "One ship kept after us and fired for one hour, getting up at close range. The darkness and rain apparently stopped it temporarily. His message continued: 'The first burst of fire was 20 shells between the forecast and bridge, with the obvious intention of putting holes in the ship. There was no warning of the shelling. We were hit with 20 mm and 40 mm and three-inch shells.'"

"GOOD AND ANGRY"

Isbrandtsen said officials of the Company were "good and angry"—it's about reached our limit. "The whole thing is an outrage. Our weakness is their strength."

The United States does not recognise the blockade, which it regards as a breach of international law, and had warned the Nationalists they will be held responsible for endangering American lives.

There were these developments on the troublesome Far Eastern front: 1. The State Department said it had received no word from the United States consulate staff in Mukden whom the Chinese Communists have ordered deported.

2. The Department said it was "actively pressing" the Chinese Communist officials in Peking to obtain the release of the United States Navy flyers, William Smith and Elmer Bender, who failed to return from a training flight over Communist-held territory on October 19, 1949.

As a goodwill gesture from the British Army to their American colleagues, Mr. Emanuel Shinwell, Secretary of State for War, recently presented a silver George II cup dating back to 1742 to General J. W. Leonard, US Military Attache, at a ceremony at the Royal Military Academy at Sandhurst. Above, Mr. Shinwell inspects officers cadets, with Gen. Leonard and Field Marshal Sir William Slim, Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

"Mac" Leaves To Accompaniment Of Firecrackers

To the accompaniment of firecrackers on the pyra, Mr. J. W. MacIntyre Brown, retired Chief Preventive Officer, waved farewell to his colleagues and the Chinese staff this morning from a Revenue launch which conveyed him across the harbour to the ss Eastern.

Mr. Brown, accompanied by his daughter, Chris, is going to Australia on retirement after 29 years' service.

The launch was escorted by another Revenue launch with spasmode bursts of crackers being fired all the way to the Kowloon Wharf.

Crackers were also fired from sampans in the vicinity of Stone Pier from where the launches left.

Chinese Paintings On Show

An exhibition of Chinese paintings by Mr. Chow Yui Fung opens today at the Hotel Cecil.

Mr. Chow studied under the famous Chinese artist, the late Mr. Ko Ki Fung. His paintings have been exhibited in England, America, France, Germany and Japan.

The exhibition is open until Thursday.

Notable Visitors From P.I. Here

The President Cleveland which arrived from Manila this morning brought a large party of Filipino notables to Hongkong for a week's holiday.

Leading the party is the Hon. Fernando Lopez, the Vice-President elect.

The party was met by the Philippine Consul, Mr. Jose Rodriguez.

Preparations For Inquiry Into Nigerian Riots

Lagos, (Nigeria), Nov. 28.—Preparations were being made here today for a full public inquiry into the Nigerian riots.

The Inquiry Commission, under Sir William Fitzgerald, former Chief Justice of Palestine, will concentrate on the initial disturbances at the Enugu coalfields, where between 20 and 40 striking miners were killed when the police opened fire.

Miners at Enugu have been striking for basic daily wage of 5s. 10d. This had been opposed by the Nigerian Government on the grounds that it would increase the price of coal by 2s. 6d. a ton and place the country at a disadvantage with her competitors.

Disorders spread from Enugu to Port Harcourt, where workers declared a general strike, to Aba, a few miles away, and the violence spread to Onitsha and Calabar, north and north-east respectively of Port Harcourt.

Police opened fire on rioters in Onitsha after trying to disperse them with tear gas and baton charges. Three Africans were wounded.

The country was still tense today, and a state of emergency and Press censorship remained in force.—Reuter.

HOUSE QUERIES

London, Nov. 28.—The Colonial Secretary, Mr. Arthur Creech Jones, told Parliament today that he had no evidence that the riots in Nigeria, where between 20 and 40 striking miners have been killed—were fomented from the outside.

Replying to a barrage of questions Mr. Creech Jones said that the situation in the disturbed areas was under control. He said it was reported from Port Harcourt—where there was serious rioting and looting on Friday—that the authorities were receiving considerable assistance from local residents. They were engaged in recovering goods stolen from the shops.

Mr. Creech Jones said that it had only been necessary for the Governor to use the police service in Nigeria.

He hoped these forces would be sufficient, but if the Governor should want any additional assistance the Government must consider it.—Reuter.

THE SEARCH IS ON FOR BRITAIN'S SPORTSMAN OF THE YEAR

By ARCHIE QUICK

The annual election of "The Sportsman of the Year," organised by the "Sporting Record," is now coming along. First winner three years ago was Bruce Woodcock, with Sydney Wooderson second; the following year it was Denis Compton with Reg Harris next; the next time Compton again topped the poll with Freddie Mills in second place.

Who wins in 1949? We have four outstanding world champions—Mills, lightweight boxer, Johnny Leach, table tennis, Tommy Price, speedway, and Reg Harris professional cycling.

Compton fell away from his previous high standard, and Len Hutton became the leading batsman. Then, of course, 18-year-old Philip Mickman, of Nottingham, swam the Channel, while Rinty Monaghan is also a world boxing champion, although not a very convincing one.

The perennially young Don Pinlay is still our best hurdler at 40 years of age, and Bill Nankville follows the line of succession of England's great millers. For Soccer, I would not hesitate to nominate Raich Carter, whose player-manager-ship of Hull City is proving so successful.

Then again, we must not forget the ladies—Bunny Stephen, the golfer, Margaret Gardner, the swimmer, the runner, the tennis player, and Joan Curry, lawn tennis.

FA CUP DRAW

London, Nov. 28. The draw for the second round competition proper of the Football Association Cup, to be played on Saturday, December 10, was made as follows:

Hartlepool United v. Norwich City
Walsley v. Netherfield
Exeter City v. Chester
Chelmsford City v. Ipswich Town

Doncaster Rovers v. Mansfield Town
Yeovil Town v. Gillingham
Southport v. Barrow v. Bradford City
Carlisle United v. Swindon Town
Weymouth v. Aldershot v. Hereford United Northampton Town v. Torquay United
Newport County v. Gateshead
Nottingham Forest v. Stockport County

Hochdale v. Notts County
Darlington v. Crewe Alexandra v. Oldham Athletic Nuneaton Borough v. Macclesfield
Wrexham v. Southend United

ALAN STEPTO LEAVES

Alan Stepto, Army, Inter-Port and KCC fast bowler, left this morning by the ss. Eastern for Brisbane on leave from the 25th Field Regiment, RA. He will not be returning here.

Two Sundays ago he hit 136 runs for the 2/6 Gurkhas against the Occasionalists at Chater Road—the highest individual knock of the season so far in local cricket.

In England he played for the Sutton Cricket Club and for England ATC while an air cadet during the war.

He went to Springgrove Grammar School, among the other Grammarians at school at the same time with him being the English Olympian and Empire Games sprinter, Sylvia Chessman and Denis Batter.

Record Holders Trying Again

Auckland, Nov. 28.—George Sutherland and Eric Coy, holders of the Empire Games' hammer and discus throwing records respectively, are among the 65 athletes who will represent Canada at the Empire Games here in February.

Sutherland, who is now 46 years of age, set the hammer record at Sydney in 1938 with a throw of 159 ft. 9 7/8 inches. Coy established the discus record at the same Games with 146 ft. 10 1/8 inches.

Eight officials will accompany the contestants.—Reuter.

Transfer Fees Keep On Skyrocketing

Up and up go these silly transfer fees. A director of a club which is trying to obtain Eddie Quigley, Sheffield Wednesday star, tells me that Wednesday value him at £35,000. The would-be purchasers offered a mere £20,000.

At this rate footballers will soon be worth—to everyone but themselves—more than film stars. But what a risk the buyers take, with the knees and ankles of star footballers so vulnerable.

But it is exchange, not cash payment that Sheffield Wednesday are after in the case of Quigley who has asked for a transfer. The earlier story for its duration threatens to make the Don Revie deal look like a snap deal in Pettit Lane.

EXCHANGE DIFFICULT
So many clubs want inside-forwards. So few have the class of player to exchange for a man of Quigley's quality. Clubs like to start with the idea that they will do business only on an exchange basis but it hardly ever works. Revie went from Leicester to Hull for example, in a £20,000 cash deal between the clubs.

Quigley is one of the six best inside-forwards in the country. Yet Wednesday have told interested clubs they want to exchange him for a man of similar ability. All right. Let's suppose they want to go to Hillsborough, Mortenson? Pearson? Mannin? Shackleton? Morris? Steel? None of these.

Wednesday can start the auction right away, and then see where Quigley would like to go.

STUDIES ECONOMICS
If you ever wonder why transfer negotiations are so long consider the complications when Wolves start talking business with Bournemouth. Wolves have to be asked (a) Would Bournemouth go to Bournemouth? (b) Would Wolves go to Wolves in part exchange? (c) Can Wolves be persuaded to leave Bournemouth? (d) Will Bournemouth agree to the fee Wolves will also want?

The Bournemouth plan falls down on young Cross, winger or centre-forward, sparely built, now studying economics at Bournemouth. A move would set my stomach back a year, and I still have three more years to do," he explains.

STAR HURDLER
Duncan White, of Ceylon, who finished second to America's Roy Cochran in the Olympic 400 metres hurdles, will probably go to New Zealand for the Empire Games after all. The authorities at Loughborough College, where he is studying Physical Education, have agreed to grant him leave of absence.

White, who earlier this season had intended to retire from the track, expects to run the 200 yards and quarter-mile hurdles as well as 440 yards hurdles.

MUST HAVE PASSPORTS
Support for the Italian Soccer team when they play England at Tottenham on Wednesday, November 30, will probably be greatly reduced by a decision of the British Consulate in Rome.

A man who had bought 150 stand tickets for the match and recently went to Rome to complete arrangements for his party has received a message from the Italian tourist agency with whom he has been co-operating stating that the British Consulate have refused to grant collective passports for parties.

'AS YOU LINE UP'
Canon A. Wellesley Orr, Rural Dean of Kingston, has tried his hand at writing a footballers' hymn, which was sung at a footballers' service in his church, St Paul's, Kingston Hill.

He dedicated it to Kingstonian F.C. Its rather intricate metre sets itself into the famous old Wessex tune—"Mine eyes have seen the glory." Here is the first of its six verses:

As you line up for the whistle, with the ball about your feet,

DAVIS LEADS LINDRUM

London, Nov. 28.—Joe Davis, former World Champion, and Horace Lindrum, of Australia, began their three-day match in the News of the World £1,500 snooker tournament today, and at the end of the first session Davis led by five frames to one.

Scores, with Davis first (Davis concedes 20 points in each frame) were 93 to 29, 83 to 55, 55 to 41, 55 to 65, 63 to 59 and 94 to 34.

Davis led Lindrum by eight frames to four at the close, each player winning three frames during the evening session. The evening scores were (Davis first) 69 to 80, 69 to 59, 52 to 92, 82 to 60, 58 to 70, 99 to 47.—Reuter.

CHELSEA BEATS SWEDISH TEAM

London, Nov. 28.—The English First Division team, Chelsea, beat the Aik Football Club of Stockholm by two goals to one after being led at half time 1-0 at Stamford Bridge Stadium here today.

G. Nilsson scored for the Aik and Bowie and Bentley replied for Chelsea.—Reuter.

The girls have been told that they must not take part in any game likely to cause physical injury before December 10, the sailing date. Even a gentle run at hockey is barred.

Yet all six were invited up to Cambridge on November 26 to compete in an athletic meeting at Fenners and the invitation was accompanied by an urgent request from the WAAA that they should all come together and treat the meeting as part of their training for the Empire Games.

Apart from the normal risks attending an athletic meeting of this sort, the danger of pulmonary edema is increased in cold, wintry weather, while running perhaps on a sodden track. Why take the risk?

(London Express Service)

Ex-Champion Criticises Australian Slugging

Some Sydney boxing trainers are kicking back viciously at former Australian champion Vic Patrick because he criticised "sock 'em" methods followed in gymnasiums.

Vic criticised the system where "socking" ability and the ability to take a "sock" is considered more important than skill.

The champ's former manager, Ern McQuillan, is leading the trainers whose feelings seem to have been hurt by the mild and well-meant criticism.

McQuillan kicked off a counterblast to Patrick by snapping up the chance of a radio interview on the subject and angrily telling the listening public where Patrick's criticism was ill-founded.

At the Sydney Stadium he boomed arguments at Patrick in corridors and dressing-rooms. His theme was how ungrateful Patrick was to criticise the very methods which took the boxer to fame and fortune—and kept him there for eight years.

SUMMING-UP
But Patrick never levelled any criticism at McQuillan in the first place. It was just a general summing-up of the methods he used to win his fights as compared with those used by Americans Freddie Dawson, Rudy Cruz and Harold Dade in Australia today.

Patrick says he now agrees with Rudy Cruz' opinion that Australian fighters are "sluggish" trained and taught mainly to hit strong and harder-hitting than their opponents.

It was precisely this term "sluggish" that boiled up McQuillan and other trainers and in retaliation to say that Patrick, like Dawson and Cruz, have a very limited knowledge of the training methods in this country.—United Press.

Not Good Enough —Except As An International

London, Nov. 27.—The outstanding figure in the English first trial teams is undoubtedly the Oxford player, C. E. Winn. This three-quarter, who has already got his Blue for cricket, has not been considered good enough by the Varsity captain to include in the Oxford side, which has an exceptionally strong back division this year.

Winn has been playing extremely well for the Rosslyn Park Club and his form has caught the selectors' eye. Should he do well in the trial and get his cap it would be the second season running when a man unable to make the University team has gone on to international status.—Reuter.

TWICE HOLES OUT IN ONE

Buenos Aires, Nov. 28.—Miss Marjorie Merchant, who is 16, twice holed out in one in a round of 18 holes at the Lomas Athletic Club here. She sunk her tee shot on the fourth and eighth greens.—Reuter.

MORE PEOPLE IN BRITAIN TAKING TO LAWN BOWLS

London, Nov. 28.—Although it does not get the public attention of such games as football and cricket, the ancient game of bowls is rapidly increasing in popularity in Britain.

Last year 74 new clubs joined the English Bowling Association, making the total membership 2,026 clubs. Many thousands of men and women have turned to this restful game, considering it the ideal recreation in a world of hurry and hard work.

The individual bowls championship is one of the hardest titles of any sport to win in England. Last summer 47,108 players took part in this event.

Although by nature a summer game, bowls has not closed down with the coming of winter. There are 45 indoor clubs affiliated to the EBA, who keep playing through the winter on indoor rinks all over the country.

Faced with the necessity of having to pay their own expenses, Britain's bowlers have declined to take part in the Empire Games at Auckland early next year, but a British team is at present on its way to South Africa to tour there.—Reuter.

Victoria Ahead In Sheffield Shield Match

Perth, Nov. 28.—Victoria, all out for 306 in their second innings, were in command today when stumps were drawn in their Sheffield Shield match against West Australia.

West Australia, 105 behind on the first innings (154 to 239), scored 61 for the loss of two wickets towards the close of today's play and were then 350 runs behind with eight wickets standing.

Ken Meuleman failed by only four runs to reach his century for Victoria while C. McDonald hit 76.

The best bowling performance was by C. Puckett, who took five wickets for Victoria for 114 runs and Herbert for 82 runs.

Meuleman was very patient today when a little more enterprise might have enabled him to pass the 100. Puckett's previous bowling gave him match figures of 10/104, but Victoria appear likely to gain an outright win to-morrow, the final day of the game.—Reuter.

MEXICAN CAGE STARS WIN IN MANILA

Manila, Nov. 28.—The Mexican basketball team racked up a 72-64 win over an College Five before a 10,000 capacity crowd at Rizal Memorial Stadium last night.

The Mexican squad, towering an average of eight inches over their Filipino opponents, trailed 12 points at the end of the first 10 minutes as they played a cautious zone defence. Then the Mexicans switched abruptly to a man-for-man technique that effectively blanketed Ateneo star Luis "Moro" Lorenzo, who had counted 10 points up to then.

The Mexican team averages 6 feet two inches.—Associated Press.

Iraq Wants An Arab Jerusalem

Lake Success, Nov. 28.—Iraq today asked the United Nations Political Committee to scrap the plan for internationalising Jerusalem and make the Holy City part of Arab Palestine.

Dr M. F. Jalami, head of the Iraqi delegation, put these points before the Committee:

Hill Not On Map

REASON GIVEN FOR PLANE CRASH

The Hague, Nov. 28.—The owners of the Dutch plane which crashed in Norway on November 20, killing 26 Jewish children, today alleged that the hill it hit was not on the pilot's map.

There was only one surveyor a few feet from the plane, which hit a hill with 34 people aboard. The children were Jewish refugees from Germany and were going to Norway for a holiday before starting a fresh life in Israel.

Experts of the Aero Holland Company, the owners of the plane, returned here from Oslo last night in a plane carrying the bodies of the crashed crew of four.

The management said this morning that the map used by the pilot did not show the hill into which the plane crashed. They named the hill as the Grotto, (1,125 feet). The Norwegian authorities and nearly all civil aviation companies used the same type of map, the statement said.

The management said that the pilot was using a map which gave the highest obstacle on his direct route as a hill of about 540 feet.

Meanwhile, the Norwegian Commission investigating the cause of the crash, is not expected to issue its full report for at least a month, although a preliminary report may be issued next week.

The bodies of the children who died in the crash are expected to be flown to Israel tomorrow.—Reuter.

WEDDING OF GREEK PRINCESS

Athens, Nov. 28.—Prince Raymond of Tasso and Princess Eugenie of Greece were married privately in the royal palace here at noon today.

Prince George of Greece, father of the bride and uncle of King Paul and the Duchess of Kent, was best man.

The ceremony was performed by Archbishop Spyridon with other members of the royal family and political leaders.

Both principals in the marriage are divorcees. The Princess is the mother of two children of her earlier marriage with Polish Prince Dominique Rostkiewicz.

Under Greek Orthodox religious law governing mixed marriages, the children are to be brought up in the Orthodox faith.

The Princess gave her age as 30. The Prince was 42. He was formerly the Austrian Prince of Thurn und Taxis but became an Italian subject when his Austrian estates were incorporated into Italy.—Associated Press.

Britain Vital To European Unity

London, Nov. 28.—Mr Winston Churchill, speaking tonight at a mass rally of the European Movement in London, said that the alternative to the success of a United Europe was "the complete breakdown of European economy and society when American aid comes to an end."

"That would be attended by a widespread misery which is the soil from which Communism springs and the sad diet on which it feeds," he added.

Mr Churchill said that none of the great powers should stand aside without inflicting a mortal injury on the cause. "But there is no danger of Britain standing aside," he said.

Mr Churchill said that understanding and co-operation must be established between Germany and the rest of Europe. "There is no doubt that there has been much delay, when time is short, we are able tonight to welcome the recent decision in favour of the partial abandonment of the protective and, at the same time, the partial policy of discrimination," he added.

Mr Churchill said that the partial abandonment of the protective and, at the same time, the partial policy of discrimination, was a step in the right direction.

LIBYA POST MAY GO TO ROMULO

Lake Success, Nov. 28.—The U.N. Assembly President, Brig-Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, was reported today to be heading a list of candidates under consideration for the new post of U.N. High Commissioner for Libya.

Informed sources said Gen. Romulo has not yet decided whether to accept the $34,000-a-year job if he gets the offer.

Gen. Romulo is chairman of a special Assembly committee appointed to pick a High Commissioner who will head the administration in Libya until January 1, 1952. Libya will become an independent country by that date as a result of a recent U.N. Assembly decision.

A Libyan delegation which sat here through the long Assembly hearings on disposition of the three former Italian colonies was said to have urged Gen. Romulo to take the position.

URGED TO ACCEPT

It was reported also that he had received a telegram from Ahmed Almislaty in Alexandria, Egypt, saying that Libyans backed fully the request of the delegation for him to accept the post.

Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan, the Foreign Minister of Pakistan, and Chief Pakistani delegate to the Assembly, also was reported to be urging Gen. Romulo to accept.

But to all the representations made to him Gen. Romulo has given no definite answer.

The nominating committee is made up of chief delegates from the Philippines, Pakistan, Brazil, Canada and Iran. It is expected to meet this week and may make a decision at that time.—Associated Press.

CHRISTMAS TRUCE IN INDO-CHINA

Saigon, Nov. 28.—General Marcel Maurice Carpenter today ordered a 24-hour Christmas truce in the fighting between French troops and those of Moscow-trained Ho Chi-minh. The announcement was made in a communiqué by the French High Commissioner, M. Leon Pignou.

M. Pignou's statement replied to a radio broadcast from anti-French headquarters in South Indo-China. The broadcast ordered that no attacks be made against the French between noon on December 24 and noon Christmas Day, local time.

Gen. Carpenter, who commands all French troops in Indo-China, issued the same order.

M. Pignou added: "I hope from the bottom of my heart that mutual goodwill permits us to celebrate peacefully the great Christmas holiday dear to humanity—the world over."—Associated Press.

Scots Home Rule Hopes Are Dashed

London, Nov. 28.—Scottish Conservatives today dashed the hopes of their Home Rule compatriots by a policy statement which aims at strengthening Anglo-Scottish ties.

But they advocated that Scotland should have more control of her own affairs. They think Britain's Socialist Government has confused "union" with "amalgamation." Scottish nationalists heartily agree if limited in number—beat faster recently when in Edinburgh a group of Scots, headed by the sixth Duke of Montrose, pledged themselves to work for a separate Parliament.

Two centuries ago, the first Duke of Montrose worked to bring the English and Scottish Parliaments together.

Scottish Conservatives, with the approval of Mr Winston Churchill, the party leader, last May set up a committee to report on means of attaining effective control of Scottish affairs.

Their report, published with Mr Churchill's endorsement, states: "The desire has continued over generations before the union of the Parliaments in 1707 to unite Scotland and England and to end the ceaseless bickering and frequent wars which weakened and distracted both nations."

"It was a wise and constructive policy. It is a policy which must be extended not reversed. The British Commonwealth and, indeed, Europe itself is not to perish. Union is strength."

"But union is not amalgamation," added the report. "To this policy (amalgamation and centralisation) we are fundamentally opposed." The report declared: "It calls for additional representation in the Government and declared that nationalised industries should have separate executive authorities in Scotland.—Reuter.
